This cause has been referred to the auditor to state an account of the assets in the hands of Zeph English, executor of John Withers, deceased, not already accounted for, and an account of distribution to the parties entitled to the fund. Therefore, the said executor and all other persons interested are hereby notified to appear before me, on WEDNES, DAY, the 18th day of February, 1874, at 11 o'clor a. m. of said day, at my office, No. 485 Louising avenue, Washington City, and be heard touching the matters referred.

ROBERT LEECH, Auditor.

BISHOP CUMMINS ON THE P. E. CHURCH. founder of the Reformed Epis livered an address to-night in the tabernacle of new Church movement. He recited the labors of the general convention of the P. E. Church, which overspread the land. He charged upon Bishep Seabury, of Connecticut, the work of restoring, in 1789, the errors which had been taken from the prayer book in 1785, and said that the Church at this time used the prayer book thus handed down, and which came originally from the polluted source of Charles II, in whose days it had been revised A. D. 1941. He justified his withdrawal from the P. E. Church on the ground that the prayer book is corrupting; that reformation must begin outside of the Church and not within its pale. He strongly contended, and quoted in support of the position Luther, John Wesley and the old Catholics.

THE RICHMOND DEFALCATION. RICHMOND, Feb. 12.—The case of W. D. Cole-man, the defaulting clerk of the Board of Public man, the defaulting clerk of the Board of Public Works and Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, was called in the Police Court this morning, but his physician reporting him unfit to appear, a further postponement was ordered.

RICHMOND, VA., Feb. 12.—A joint resolution was adopted by the Senate to-day directing the superintendent of public works to rent a suitable building and remove the books, records, &c., in building and remove the books, records, &c., in the State library thereto, or to the basement of the capitol. This action is caused by apprehen-sions, aggravated by the falling of the plastering this morning, that the immense weight of books, &c., in the library may cause the floor, which is above the Senate chamber, to give way and cause another disaster similar to that of April, 1870.

SENATOR BROWNLOW AND CIVIL RIGHTS. KNONVILLE, TENN., Feb. 12.—The Patity Chronicle of this city publishes a long letter from Senator Brownlow to-morrow on the civil rights bill. He decidedly opposes the mixed school feature of the bill, and says it would destroy free schools in the South. He advises the colored people to tell Congress that they do not want mixed schools. He also favors the issue of more currency.

NEW YORK WORKINGMEN. New York, Feb. 12.—A meeting of working men, under the auspices of the so-called commit-tee of safety, was held at the Houston street casino to-night. About one hundred were present.
Leander Thompson presided, and speeches were made by Messrs. Banks, Maguire, Samuel, and

DISCUSSION OF NATIONAL FINANCE IN THE HOUSE.

GENERAL REVIEW OF THE ADMINIS TRATION OF THE TREASURY—ITS CONDI-TION-THE MATCH TAX-PASSAGE OF THE FORTIFICATION APPROPRIATION - THE CURRENCY QUESTION IN THE SENATE.
THUBSDAY, PERRUARY 12, 1874. SENATE.

EQUALIZATION OF THE CURRENCY. the Deaf, llumb and the Blind. Referred to District of Columbia.

Mr. BUUKINGHAM alluded to the aid in men and money furnished by New England to the Government during the war, and thought it would be unjust now for the West to take from his section the capital which it had sarned.

Mr. SCOTT advocated the bill as reported by the committee, but opposed the amendment of Mr. MERRIMON. He defended the national banking system. He thought the distribution of circulation according to population would not answor, the great diversity of business making the demands of some sections greater than those of others. He opposed any increase in the volume of the currency.

oreess shall be in greenbecks of in matterns inotes.

Mr. FERRY, of Michigan, said this amendment of Mr. Whight's embasrassed him. He did not want to take anything from New England, and would prefer that the West should have what she wanted without interfering with New England; but the issue was right here, and if there was to be no additional circulation he must insist upon the West having her proportion of what there was.

Pending further discussion the Senate went into executive session, and then adjourned.

So far as deficiencies arise they will diminish the twenty million dollars. What they would be he did not know. He was informed there would be a deficiency of about a million in the Indian bureau. He estimated the general deficiency at two millions. New claims for additional pensions and missellaneous items generally would be he believed when the deficiency at two millions. Congress passed an act on the 8th of January, 1873, providing that the Board of Public Works were prohibited from incurring any further liability on behalf of the United States, or from entering into any contract for work to be done for the United States, except upon appropriations actually made. In the face of this, and confronted with that clause of the act, they had gone on since that time and incurred liabilities from three to five millions. He did not eare to discuss the claim, or the legality of the act, or whether the money had been wisely spont. The Treasury might be liable, or the House might think proper to pay it, but the act-of Congress justified the Treasury in not including it in the estimates. If it was allowed, it would diminish the balance of $20,000,000, making about $7,000,000 in all to be taken from it.

It had been suggested, he said, that the mixed commission would require two millions more, and if an additional pension bill was passed that would require more, leaving not more than ten millions in the Treasury at the close of the year. which began with sixty. It would, he said, be admitted by all that ten millions in the Treasury was not a safe sum to have on hand to meet any and all Habilities that might arise. No one would undertake to administer the affairs of the Treasury unless Congress made some provision to fall back upon to meet an unexpected draft upon thorizing the issue of forty-six millions addraught bank circulation.

Mr. SHERMAN said this question of inflation was the great question of the day, and he deprecated its being implicated with this bill, which was an honest effort to satisfy a local demand. He asked for a square vote on this bill.

Mr. WRIGHT moved to strike from the bill as the amount to be withdrawn from the States in the amount to be withdrawn from the States in the amount to be withdrawn from the States in the same of the state of the shows what would have been paid in coin, if t reserves for which the coin is held had not be used.

As the whole value of the statement depended apon its reliability he desired to call the attention of the committee to that point. He then went into a comparison of the revenues, receipts and expenditures, for the last niesteen montistic the twelve months of last year and the swell with the present year which had passed, and the last five months of the last year with the estimates for the remaining five months of the present year. He anticipated increased revenues from a revival of business, an indication of which was the increase of the sale of postage stamps, which were eleven millious more last month than in any previous month, while during and following the panic there was a very perceptible diminution in the sales.

Mr. BECK, of Ky., asked if he considered it fair to compare the seven months of last year, when there were many imports held back to take advantage of the reduction of duties.

Mr. DAWES said there were doubtless many qualifications to go into the estimates. For instance, an anticipation of an increase of the tax on whisky had no doubt increased the revenues from that source. So, with the renewal of business, there might be a rebound that would carry it above where it would sustain itself, but, so far as possible, these considerations had been taken into account in the estimates.

It was but fair and due to the administration of the Treasury to inquire why the balance in the Treasury was reduced from sixty to twenty millions.

So, with the renewal of business, there might be a rebound that would carry it above where it would sustain itself, but, so far as possible, these considerations had been taken into account in the estimates.

It was but fair and due to the administration of the Treasury to inquire why the balance in the Treasury was reduced from sixty to twenty milions.

On the 1st of May, 1872, they repealed all duties on tea and coffee. Had these duties remained they would have received during the seven months on tea $15,090,778, and on coffee $5,055,855, or a total of over $25,000,000.

On the oth of June they reduced the duties on several articles and placed on the free list a number of others by which the revenues were further reduced over $19,000,000, or a total reduction of over $45,000,000.

As to the question how the Treasury was to be relieved, be said there were three ways in which it could be done. First, by increased taxation; This he was opposed to, and gaid there had never been a case where this was resorted to in times of peace and prosperity.

The people had responded to the calls of the Government in time of the war, but that over the burden had been inknome, and they had from time to time reduced them. To end the discussion and personalities, which bade hir to prolong the convention for several days, Moses Strong moved that the debate terminate at 9 p. m., and the business of electing a bishop be proceeded with.

Dr. De Koven rose and asked the privilege of the fisor for the last bear, between 5 and 9 p. m., to define his position. This was objected to, on the ground that it would be unfair to the Hoffman party to proceed to the election of bishop under spell of the Professor's elequence.

De Koven declined making any statement under any other conditions.

Pending argument on this point the convention adjourned until 2 p. m.
